Over the past 10 years, the real estate market in Marbella has shown steady price growth, with an acceleration in recent years. The average annual increase in property values is estimated to range between 4–6%. In El Rosario, in the last 12 months, the price per square meter of built property has increased from €5,000 to €7,000 per square meter (according to sales data from crm.inmobalia) This trend is driven by an influx of international investors, strong demand for luxury properties, and the region's overall development, including infrastructure and tourist appeal.
